

This sentence should be fully justified, which means that the right and left margins of this paragraph should line up, no matter how long the paragraph becomes; the exception, of course, is the last line, which should be left-justified in Western languages.