

This element has a space-after of -10px, which should cause elements after it to be shifted "upward" on the page, and no top margin. No other styles have been applied to it besides an aqua background. In all other respects, the element should be normal.
This is a reference line for the property set above.