+1 to the Community Idea

- Microsoft wants to see the next-generation Web innovated at W3C
 - Discussion open to non-members
 - Guided by need for Consensus, Quality, Coherence
- Community Proposal Forum lets people quickly upload proposals and get feedback
 - With a clear IPR policy
 - With options to create a Spec and maybe a Rec
 - Under the W3C umbrella but without handcuffs

Possible Topics for Proposal Forum

- Profile of HTML suitable for email ?
- Incorporate jQuery nodelists in Web APIs ?
- Better documentation for web developers ?
- Identify interoperable intersection of Web platform specs ?
